About Nazaret

Leaving the Villa de Tegui, heading to Arrecife, we find small towns with charm. The first one is Nazaret. Nazaret is a cluster of little white houses resting on the south face of Las Laderas. This mountain hides a special secret - one of the island's most surprising man-made spaces, and it is open to visitors. It is a museum restaurant where, in the very belly of this mountain of volcanic rock, a truly unique place has been created, with an architecture that blends into the natural environment perfectly.

This is the ideal place to enjoy fine cuisine and to have a drink whilst listening some of the latest music.
